

ELANGDELL®

WHAT IS IT?

CALI believes that the best educational materials are ones that can be edited, adapted and otherwise used free of copyright or technological encumbrances. eLangdell® is our way of helping you do that.

ELANGDELL® PRESS

Under the eLangdell® Press banner, we commission and publish casebooks and casebook chapters authored and reviewed by law professors. They are released under a Creative Commons license so that you and your students can use them free of charge. We also publish in multiple electronic formats - including Microsoft Word - so you can remix and edit them to your specifications. For those that prefer a traditional experience, print copies can be purchased from Lulu, a Print-on-Demand service, for the cost of printing. Review copies are available upon request.

PUBLISH YOUR OWN CASEBOOK OR SUPPLEMENT

Our research has shown that many faculty are already creating and distributing casebooks and supplements via Course Management Systems (e.g., TWEN or Blackboard), SSRN, library eReserves, etc. As a service to our member institutions, CALI's team of experts can help you with creating ebook or print versions of your work. These can then be distributed where and however you'd like.

FEDERAL RULES

As part of an ongoing partnership with the Legal Information Institute at Cornell University Law School, eLangdell® Press distributes free electronic versions of the Federal Rules of Evidence, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. If you've never used open or electronic casebooks, these are an excellent way to try them - and save your students some money!

LEGAL CLASSICS AND LAW AND LITERATURE

New this year is the Legal Classics and Law and Literature collections. These are public domain works such as The Federalist Papers and Billy Budd that are used in some law school courses. The titles in the collection were selected after a review of syllabi.